

PSYCHOLOGY. Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pennsylvania. The Department of Psychology invites applicants for an adjunct instructor position to teach undergraduate psychology courses for spring semester 2012. It is anticipated that the course load will consist of three classes in the following possible areas: Introductory Psychology, Personality Psychology, Organizational Psychology. Preferred qualifications include a masters or higher in psychology. A successful interview and demonstration of relevant ability are required.

Westminster College is a coeducational, national liberal arts institution with historical ties to the Presbyterian Church (USA). The College enrolls approximately 1,400 full-time undergraduate students and employs approximately 115 full-time faculty. It is located in rural western Pennsylvania and is within easy driving distance of both Pittsburgh and Cleveland. See <http://www.westminster.edu/>

Applicants should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts and three reference letters to Dr. Mandy B. Medvin, Department of Psychology, Westminster College, 319 S. Market Street, New Wilmington, PA 16172-0001. All materials must be received by this date. Review of applications will begin October 17, 2011 and continue until the position is filled. EOE.