

Adjunct Faculty – Anatomy and Physiology, School of Nursing

The Westminster College School of Nursing is seeking an Adjunct Faculty member to teach Anatomy and Physiology courses for pre-nursing students for summer, fall and spring sessions beginning May 4, 2026. The 15-week courses may vary between in person and asynchronous online didactic and lab.

The course, syllabi, and lessons for both formats are established. A & P I and II are introductory courses that cover the structure, metabolism, chemical make-up, cellular structure, tissues, movement, support, coordination and control of the human body. Students will gain specific knowledge of anatomical terminology and the way in which the body functions as a balanced system. This course includes lab time for the student to visualize and apply learned material.

Application Deadline: ASAP or until filled. Please send letter of interest and curriculum vitae/resume to Dr. Maria Sapienza, Chair, School of Nursing, Westminster College, at sapienma@westminster.edu
